The Irene Shot At===

Refused to Stop When Ordered.

London, July 19 .- (Special.) -A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Hong Kong states, on the authority of Mr. Wildman, the American consul, that as the German warship Irene was passing Mariveles the other day the United States dispatch boat Hugh McCulloch was sent by Admiral Dewey to ask her to stop. The Irene refused to comply with the request, whereupon a shell was fired at her and a boat was sent to watch her.

Admiral Diedrichs protested against this action and insisted that the German ships were entitled to enter the harbor without being searched. Admiral Dewey, however, declined to recognize such a right. It is reported that Admiral Diedrichs asked Capt. Chichester of the British warship Immortalite what he would do if the Ger-mans interfered with an American bombardment of Manila. Capt. Chichester replied that only Admiral Dewey and himself knew what Naahville's New Louisville & Nashville Station.

Bids Opened Yesterday For Building the flagnificent Structure.

Bids were opened yesterday at Nashville for the new depot of the Louisville & Nashville railroad at that place. Contracts for the construction will be let. When completed the station will be the handsomest in the South. Without the real estate, which is very valuable, the cost will be $1,000,000. The station will be located on South Walnut street and New Kayne avenue, south of Broad street. The Louisville & Nashville Terminal Company has been working on the plans for some time. The plans include a depot building and baggage room, with a train shed of 200 feet clear space, a total width of $20 feet and a length of 500 feet. It will have three through width of 240 feet and a length of 500 feet. It will have three through tracks and six stub end tracks. The station will be used by the L. & N. and the Nashville, Chattannoga and St. Louis railroad.

The building will be most attractive. The main entrance will front on a viaduct, which will include Broad street. In the center over the entrance will rise a tower, 220 feet high. The height of the building to the eaves will be sixty feet. feet high. The height of the building to the caves will be sixty feet nine inches. Three vestibules will lead to the general waiting room, which will be 100 feet deep and 50 feet wide. The ladies waiting room will be 44 by 39 feet. All necessary offices will be provided. The plans are elaborate. A year or more will be required for the construction. It has not yet been decided whether the edifice will be built of sôlid stone or brick with stone trimmings. Plans for both have been received. The size of the depot is being graded.

German arms.

Gold Uncle Blucher, or Bluecher, as the German scalled him, who saved the day at Waterloo and Drought about the defeat of the great Napoleon, was a 'character,' and he was an inveterate gambler, according to the stories handed down in the German army," said Mr. Meyer. "Blucher was a curious old fellow, according to the army tradition. Did you never hear the story of what he said about the officer accused of drinking? Well, one fine day the colonol of a regiment went to Blucher to complain about another colonel, who, he said, was always drunk. The great general opened a drawer and produced a notebook, from which he read about the gallant conduct of the accused in certain desperate engagements. Closing the book with a bang and throwing it on the table, he looked the accuser steadily in the face and said: 'I wish to God, sir, that you would get drunk, too.'

"Yes, I know a somewhat similar story is told of President Lincoln in reference to Gen. Grant," continued Mr. Meyer, after being interrupted, "but the German books, published more than half a century ago, tell that story about old man Blucher.

"But Gen. Blucher's own habits gave his friends much concern. Blucher, like many prominent men of his time, was a reckless gambler. The king, who was much attached to him, had paid his debts over and over again, but it was no use. The old marshal had gone through his wife's property, as well as his own, and his pay was always spent in advance. Once he was 'General Control of the scrape will you promise we not to gamble again?" said the king. Blucher gave the promise and added, as the king gave him 100,000 thalers: 'I will go straight home to my wife and settle half of this money unon her so that I half of this money unon her so that I half of this money unon her so that I half of this money unon her so that I half of this crape.

again? said the king. Blucher gave the promises and added, as the king gave him 100,000 thalers: 'I will go straight home to my wife and settle half of this money upon her so that I shall not be able to toue hit, and I will then pay up all my debts and never touch a card any more.'

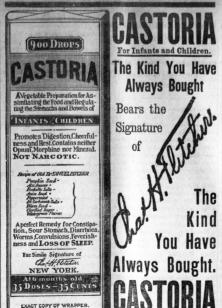

"Blucher went home, gave 50,000 to his wife, and, after dinner, sallied forth to pay his debts. At midnight Bluchers wife was roused from her slumbers by one of her husband's staff officers, who had been sent for 25,000 thalers. 'Dear, good man,' said the hady. It knew he would want it before morning, so I have put up just that sum in a package for him. Here it is, and tell him to be carfell about the cold air coming home, and to mufflet up well.'

"The officer departed, only to return after a few hours for the rest of the money, with the same success. Blucher went home to breakfast in the morning, having lost every penny of the king's gift at play.

"Again Blucher went to the king, told him the whole story, and listened attentively to all the reproaches until his majesty said: 'Uncle'—for he al-ways called Blucher, 'I did not give my sacred word of honor 'Will you give it to me now?' asked the king, 'Ach! Mein Gott' That is a hard thing to ask from Blucher, 'replied the hero of Waterloo. But after some grumbling the sacred promise was given, and old 'Vovwarts' stopped gambling."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

> Cadiz, Ky., July 19.—(Correspondence.)—As anything that pertains to war seems to be of special interest to the reading public now perhaps it would not be out the line of general interest to mention an old war relic that I have. It is an old war relic that I have. It is an old sword that was carried by my great grand father, Alexander Fraser, in the war between France and England, or what is commonly known as the French and Indian war, and with which he scaled the war, and with which he scaled the Hights of Abraham with Gen. Wolfe in that memorable battle of Quebec, which was fought on the 13th of September 1759 between Generals Wolfe and Montcalm.

There is no scabbard with it, and the blade, not having been very well protected, is some what rusted. Heretofore it has not been appre-ciated as highly perhaps as it should have been, but now, since the toesin of war has again sound-Captain of a company of militia, or

Fine Wheat Yield.

Mr. O. G. Wood, of the Old Bain-bridge neighborhood, reports the best yield of wheat, so far heard from, in the county. On twenty-two acres of ground the general average was 24½ bushels per acre. Of this six acres of tobacco land produced 245 bushels. Mr. Wood raises what is known as the "Har-vest King" variety of wheat. He has already had numerous applica-tions from his neighbors for seed wheat and he will probably dispose of his surplus in this manner. Mr. O. G. Wood, of the Old Bain-
